

Behind the Scenes

This column provides our customers with a glimpse at our valued employees who are working behind the scenes to provide you with the best products and services in the industry. Their experience and dedication allow us to continue to be the most trusted provider of integrated software and market data solutions for the refined petroleum products industry. This month's spotlight is on Tanya Feyereisen.

Tanya is the Director of Data Services for AXXIS Petroleum, where she is responsible for all of the Data Services Products for the downstream petroleum market. She is an industry veteran with extensive experience in the Petroleum and Energy market. Prior to joining AXXIS in April of 1998, Tanya worked for Northern States Power (a.k.a. Excel Energy), where she was an Account Executive responsible for Natural Gas and Electric sales.

Tanya's energy industry knowledge allowed her to quickly transition to the AXXIS software and services offering. She is responsible for managing the automation, product development, and support for the AXXIS Price Service, Price History, and web based self service Historical Price Reporting market data services products. She has worked with the team to build a highly accurate and technically sound operations environment for AXXIS data services. Tanya has leveraged advanced technology to streamline the data collection and price reporting process. She has been an integral part of defining and creating both the internal and external product and product reporting systems for both Price Service and Price History.

Self Service
Historical
Price
Reporting

Tanya recently returned to AXXIS after welcoming a new baby girl into the Feyereisen family. She will resume her role as Director of Data Services and will continue the AXXIS tradition of providing the most accurate and respected data in the industry.

If you would like more information on Price Services, Price History, or self service historical price reporting please contact Rich Lisauskas at 651-644-8280 Ext:32 or via email at rlisauskas@axxispetro.com.

Product Spotlight – Capture Rite

In the last issue of customer news we discussed the trend where many suppliers are changing the pricing notification process. Many suppliers are moving their pricing notification away from the traditional satellite based notification and instead are providing prices direct from their website. This allows the suppliers to cut costs, and streamline the process. However it creates a headache for marketers, jobbers and other supplier customers as they now have to “pull” prices from multiple websites rather than receiving prices automatically.

In response to these market changes, AXXIS has created the Capture Rite module to automate the supplier price capture process. Working directly with the suppliers we have created Capture Rite to streamline and automate the “pull” process and provide a built-in scheduler that allows you to chose when you want Capture Rite to automatically sign on to the web site and pull your prices. We have also created a graphical front-end to this new module called the Fuel Manager Dashboard. The dashboard provides an organized and centralized control panel to run any AXXIS application and offers a quick and efficient method for viewing your prices via the Supplier Toolbar.

If you would like more information on Capture Rite please contact Art King at 651-644-8280 Ext:33 or via email at aking@axxispetro.com.

Industry Trends –The Energy Policy Act of 2003

We planned to use this section to discuss some of the many changes enacted by the Energy Act of 2003 and their impact on technology solutions and you. We attended sessions at SIGMA to ensure that we are abreast of the latest changes. However, as of press time, the Energy Policy Act of 2003 was still stalled in the US Senate. Therefore, we will discuss this important legislation and what it means to the industry in a future issue of the Customer News.

